

Threads Settings

Using the Threads option, you can customize the timeframe for the currently running queries based on their execution time.

How To Change?

Users can change the Threads option by clicking the Threads Settings icon. A new window displays where we can set the time for currently running queries in decreasing order.

Auto-adjust height for processlist view?

If enabled Monyog will auto-adjust the threads view's height, else threads will be displayed with a fixed height scrollable view.

Set Default

An option is given to select the view for the processlist window. You can either select to have a fixed height or dynamic (full screen) height for your processlist window.
