Database is not in a usable state

SQL Elements has detected a database that in an inaccessible state. This could be an expected or intentional action - for example, if a restore operation is being performed, or if a database has been explicitly set offline - but it could also be a serious problem, so it should be investigated.

If the state of the database is expected, you may safely dismiss this recommendation.