

PMDB notation

Most database management systems (DBMS) are case-insensitive and do not require either upper- or lowercase notation. Some DBMSs, however, are case sensitive concerning entity names, and some case-insensitive DBMSs automatically change lowercase entity names to uppercase.

The PMDB uses the following notation:

- Tag names and attributes are written in lowercase.
- Attribute values are written in uppercase.
- Database entities are written in uppercase.

IDERA | Products | Purchase | Support | Community | Resources | About Us | Legal